The Board of Managers of the New Jersey State Hospital at Morris Plains have sent a circular letter to the Boards of Chosen Freeholders of the various counties asking them to limit the number of persons sent to inspect the hospital. The letter contains a copy of a resolution which says that it is the sense of the managers that it is detrimental to the health of insane patients to have large delegations of strangers passing through the wards. An inspection of the buildings and accommodations can be made just as well by a small committee, the managers ask that the Freeholders act accordingly.

WILL Fight Revocation.

The Montclair and Bloomfield Telephone Company proposes to fight any action on the part of the Montclair Town Council tending towards revoking the company's franchise in that town. The company was represented at the meeting of the Montclair Council Monday night by its attorney, Mr. Curtis, who protested against the forfeiture of their property, and announced that the company would contest any effort on the part of the Council to carry out its proposed purpose. The property is mortgaged for $20,000, and this fact, said Mr. Curtis, induced the company in protecting its creditors.

The company claimed that it had never refused to do business, and was, in fact, doing business all the time, having a central office in town and giving subscribers good service. The reason they did not re-establish a new central office after their central was destroyed by fire was that the number of subscribers was not large enough to warrant the expenditure of the amount necessary to equip such a central. The letter which was handed in was signed by Horace B. Hurd, the President, and W. J. Foster, Secretary. The matter was laid over until the first meeting in September, when the company will be given a hearing.

Trolley Business.

The payment of $91,683.39 by the Public Service Corporation to the city of Newark at the 5 per cent. tax on the gross earnings of the trolley lines in Newark shows the remarkable growth in the amount of street railway traffic since electricity was adopted as the motive power for the cars twelve years ago. The tax is the price exacted by the city at that time for the privilege of changing the motive power.

Under the agreement the city received for 1891, the first year of its operation, $5,891.89. The next year the amount was more than doubled. In 1895 it was again about double the amount of the previous year, being $46,702.91. Since 1896 the annual increase has settled down to a steady pace. With the exception of one year it has been at the rate of about $5,000. The twelve years show an increase of 1,700 per cent.

This growth is a proof of the wisdom of the change in motive power, and likewise of the foresight of the city a dozen years ago in demanding a percentage of the gross receipts instead of selling the privilege for a lump sum. Newark is now getting a very tidy little income from that source, and it is an income that will steadily grow. At the same time the trolley concern is getting off very cheaply. It really has a big bargain, for it pays nothing for the privilege of using the streets.

No Market for Bonds.

No proposals were received Monday night by the Millburn Township Committee in answer to their advertisement for bids for the 30-year bonds for $140,000 for the construction of the joint and township sewer system. A couple of representatives from New York financial institutions were present and told the committee that the market was overstocked at present. They said the bonds would be more easily floated if they were made term instead of serial bonds. They also thought that the committee would find some difficulty in placing the bonds at 4 per cent.

Grand Army Encampment.

For the second time the Grand Army of the Republic will hold its annual encampment at San Francisco, Calif. Doubtless, also, it will be the last time. Seventeen years ago the encampment met there, and that body is not likely to revisit any city at shorter intervals. Almost the entire membership of this distinguished and honorable society live in what we here call Eastern States. It is not a continuing body. Into its ranks no man can enter who did not serve his country in the army or navy during the years from 1861 to 1865. That such a host of survivors remain of a conflict which ended nearly forty years ago is solemn evidence of the desperate nature of the struggle which demanded the personal service of representatives from almost every American family existing at the time.

JUST ONE BOY'S WAY

THE DRAMA THAT WAS ENACTED ON A STREET CAR.

A Pocket Exploration That Held the Passengers Breathless and Proved Eminently Satisfactory to the Persistent Youngster.

When this small boy on the Ninth street car went into his clothing after his car fare, the other passengers betrayed little or no interest in him. He was an ordinary, snub nosed, freckle faced boy of nine or ten, and it seemed pretty safe to assume that he had the nickel necessary for a ride or he would not have swung aboard, and so the passengers paid little or no attention to him. The men, as usual, occupied themselves in pretending that they weren't looking at all at the good looking women in the opposite seats, and the women, also as usual, endeavored to convey the impression that they didn't know there was such a creature as a man within a hundred miles of them.

But when this small boy began to have his troubles all hands got to looking him over. Everybody, it would appear, likes to see a small boy in trouble.

The boy plowed around in the lining of the right hand pocket of his shabby little overcoat, screwing himself into many possible attitudes as he stood and wriggled in the aisle, and finally, after terrific exertion, he brought forth a penny, half buried in a lot of woolly stuff from the coat. Then he turned his attention to the lining of the left hand pocket of his overcoat. After almost superhuman difficulties, in the process of which it looked as if the boy might get himself wrapped around an invisible axis several times in such a manner that he could never get right again, he produced another penny, also pell-mell wedged in woolen lint belonging to the overcoat.

A couple of elderly men who were reading papers side by side at the end of the car began to get nervous. They pushed back their spectacles and studied the boy's movements anxiously. "Fare, there, son!" said the conductor.

The boy gazed reproachfully at the conductor, stuck the two found pennies in his mouth and continued his weird exertions to assemble his fare.

He unbuttoned his overcoat by the simple process of giving it a yank from bottom to top, and then he dug into the right hand pocket of his jacket. That pocket, too, seemed to be liningless, and the boy had to grope through it like a cat clawing for the exit of a beng. At length he got to the end of it, and an expression of acute relief crossed his freckled features. The hand was wedged in so tightly that he had about as much trouble in getting it out as he had in getting it in, but it clutched another cent when it finally made its appearance. This went into his mouth to join the other two. At this point the two elderly men coughed violently and scowled at the boy as if to say that they wished the infernal business were done with, but the others who were watching the boy's moves looked sympathetic.

The boy next began a laborious exploration of his right hand knickerbocker pocket, from which he produced and bestowed in his overcoat pocket many articles peculiar to boys—marbles, piece of wax, a rusty looking knife, two or three printed celluloid buttons, and so on—and at the very bottom of this salvage was yet another penny. All the other passengers except the two elderly men breathed sighs of relief, but they wanted to read their papers, and yet they couldn't while this boy was engaged in his eventful search, with the chances about even whether he'd win out or not.

"Fare now there, kid!" said the conductor, once more tackling the boy. The boy handed him the four pennies from his mouth after very politely rubbing them off on his overcoat sleeve, and he said, with a very boyish grin: "I got the other one somewhere. Wait a minute, mister."

Then the boy gazed up at the ceiling of the car and studied for a moment, while the other passengers except the two elderly men, who looked ferocious, rooted for him with all their might.

The boy felt tentatively at his left hand knickerbocker pocket, but it was plain to see that he knew that was no go. For about half a minute he looked worried, and the sympathetic passengers worried along with him, as could be seen by the tense expression on their faces as they regarded every movement of the boy, with strained, almost feverish attention. Then the boy reached into a back pocket of his knickerbockers, brought forth one of those celluloid travelling soap boxes, somewhat battered, took off the lid, and there, buried in a lot of junk, was the other cent.

The sigh of relief that ran around that car was distinctly audible. The sympathetic passengers, men and women, settled themselves back in their seats and smiled at the boy, and two or three of them looked as if they wanted to jump up and suggest cheers. The two elderly men coughed violently again, readjusted their spectacles and began again on their newspapers.

Then the small neat looking child side pocket of the contents—all nickels and dimes began counting!

SUCCESSFUL.

Induced Dr. Howard Company to Make Special Price.

After a great deal of effort and correspondence W. W. Keyler, the popular druggist, has succeeded in getting the Dr. Howard Co. to make a special half-price introductory offer on the regular fifty-cent size of their celebrated specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia.

This medicine is a recent discovery for the cure of all diseases of the stomach and bowels. It not only gives quick relief, but it makes permanent cures.

Dr. Howard's specific has been so remarkably successful in curing constipation, dyspepsia, and all liver troubles that W. W. Keyler is willing to return the price paid in every case where it does not give relief.

The old-fashioned idea of dosing with mineral waters, cathartic pills or harsh purgatives will soon be a thing of the past. The best physicians are prescribing Dr. Howard's specific because it really gives the desired results and on account of the small and pleasant dose that is needed.

So great is the demand for this specific that W. W. Keyler has been able to secure only a limited supply, and every one who is troubled with dyspepsia, constipation or liver trouble should call upon him at once, or send 25 cents, and get sixty doses of the best medicine ever made on this special half-price offer, with his personal guarantee to refund the money if it does not cure.—Adet.

Primary Law Upheld.

Attorney-General Robert H. McCarter filed with the Supreme Court Wednesday his brief defending the primary reform act passed by the last Legislature and attacked on mandamus proceedings instituted by Andrew Hopper against Maurice Stack, County Clerk of Hudson County. Mr. McCarter takes up serially the arguments of Congressman Allan L. McDermott, who appeared as the legal representatives of Hopper and the Democratic machine of Hudson County, which is attacking the act.

It was currently reported about the State House on apparently good authority that no decision will be announced by the Supreme Court until after the November election, which will mean that the primary reform act will prevail at the coming election. If further rumors here are credited it is the present purpose to give the act a fair trial at the next general election, and then if the act is found faulty by the court to have it amended at the next session of the Legislature so as to overcome any legal objections that may be raised, and also to remedy any defects that may become apparent in the practical operation of the law.

This, at least, is said to be in accordance with the wishes of the administration, and it is also understood to have met the approval of the court, since under any circumstances it will be impossible to have the constitutionality of the act passed upon by the Court of Errors and Appeals before the time for the general election.

Labor Leaders' Troubles.

In the "Story of a Labor Agitator," which is to be issued under the imprint of The Outlook Company, Joseph B. Buchanan will present the vital side of trade-union activities. He will tell the story of a leader, and through his experiences point out the problems confronting other labor leaders, the ends toward which they are working, and the difficulties they contend with within their own ranks as well as the opposition they encounter from opposing employers. Mr. Buchanan has for years held the position of labor news editor. Before taking this position, he was for nearly twenty years in the thick of the labor conflict in the West. It has been said that he "led" more strikes than any other man in the country, yet never struck himself.

Mr. Buchanan was brought into the labor movement by his instinctive sympathy with its ideals, and the influence he wielded within it was due to the power with which he championed the movement on the platform and in the labor press.

Night was Her Terror.

"I would cough nearly all night long," writes Mrs. Chas. Applegate of Alexandria, Ind., "and I could hardly get any sleep. I had consumption so bad that if I walked a block I would cough frightfully and spit blood, but, when all other medicines failed, three $1 bottles of Dr. King's New Discovery wholly cured me and I gained fifty-eight pounds." It's absolutely guaranteed to cure Coughs, Colds, La Grippe, Bronchitis and all Throat and Lung Troubles. Price 50¢ and $1. Trial bottles free at all drug stores.—Adet.
